Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

What is a medical escort?

A medical escort is a licensed healthcare professional who accompanies a patient during travel — typically on a commercial airline or private jet — to provide monitoring, medical support, and peace of mind. Unlike an air ambulance, which uses a fully equipped aircraft, a medical escort leverages existing flights to deliver safe and discreet care.

How is a medical escort different from an air ambulance?

Air ambulances are designed for intensive care and emergency flight operations, often at very high cost. A medical escort offers a more practical and discreet solution for patients who are stable to fly but still require medical oversight, monitoring, and care coordination during travel.

What types of patients benefit from medical escort services?

Patients who may benefit include:

- Individuals recovering from illness, surgery, or hospitalization abroad
- Seniors or snowbirds needing assistance returning home
- Tourists or expatriates requiring monitored travel
- Patients with mobility limitations who need support boarding, transferring, and in-flight monitoring

Can you provide services on private jets?

Yes. We provide professional medical escort services on both commercial airlines and private aircraft. If a client owns or charters their own jet, we can monitor them aboard their flight. We can also coordinate dedicated medical jet services when required.

Do you coordinate ground transportation?

Yes. We arrange ground ambulance or non-emergency medical transport as needed to ensure safe connections between hospitals, airports, and destinations. This creates a seamless bed-to-bed service.

Is my personal health information kept private?

Absolutely. Travel Overseas Medic provides concierge-level, HIPAA-compliant care. All communication, translation, and documentation are handled with strict confidentiality to protect your privacy.

What if language is a barrier during travel?

We offer real-time, HIPAA-compliant medical translation services across a wide range of languages. This ensures safe, accurate communication with airlines, medical staff, and families throughout the journey.

What medical certifications do you hold?

Our lead provider is a Nationally Registered Paramedic (NREMT-P) with over 25 years of EMS experience, holding advanced certifications in NRP, ACLS, and PALS. Additional credentials include Tactical Medic certification, surgical/OR background, pediatric transport, and Department of Defense deployment experience.
